

NO RESULT IN WHITE HOUSE MINE PARLEY

President and Union Chiefs in Long But Futile Conference

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—President Harding failed tonight to persuade union coal miners to promise not to strike next spring. Four hours of argument failed to move the officials from their stand that they were powerless to bind the United Mine Workers of America to any such agreement. It was pointed out that this is no indication that the miners would strike when their wage agreement expires next March.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover and Secretary of Labor Davis, together with President Harding, were closeted with the officials most of the day in an effort to secure a promise against a possible tie-up of the coal mines next spring.

President Harding and Secretary Hoover described to the miners the idleness and suffering that a general coal strike would inflict, not only upon the miners themselves, but upon all labor, long conferences the miners refused to commit themselves.

The mine officials went into the president's office at 12:30. At 1 o'clock they were taken to the white house to continue the conference around the luncheon table. Secretary Hoover afterward issued a statement announcing that no agreement had been reached but no one who attended the conference would be quoted as to what had taken place. It is understood, however, that the president put the question up to the miners on the basis of the public interest.

Secretary Hoover tried to show the advantage that the miners themselves would derive by giving assurance that reviving industry would not be hampered by an interrupted flow of coal arising out of a strike.

Union chiefs stated that the miners replied, it is said, with assurance that the miners wished to do nothing adverse to the public welfare. But the union officials insisted that they were present only as spokesmen for their followers, who had no action at Indianapolis refused authority for discussion of a no-strike agreement.

After the conference Secretary Hoover issued the following statement:

"The conference with the miners representatives today was in sequence of discussions carried on last week with representatives of the coal operators under the auspices of the employment conference. The desire of the conference was to determine if steps could be taken now that would minimize the danger of a stoppage in coal production at the expiration of the national agreements at the end of March, by a prior understanding to arbitrate any ultimate differences.

"Owing to the situation of the miners leaders as the result of the decision at their convention to defer discussion of the agreement until after their February meeting, it has been impossible to come to any immediate arrangement."

Say Schwab May Enter Pacific Coast Field With Steel Plant

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—Rumors were current in financial circles here tonight of an invasion of the Los Angeles district by the Schwab steel interests, said to contemplate a $60,000,000 combination with a local firm in the erection of a steel mill at San Pedro.

Bankers would not commit themselves upon the rumors, although it was intimated that the matter had been discussed in private conferences with eastern financiers here at the recent conference of the American Bankers' association. J. J. Termon, manager of the Bethlehem steel plant at Alameda, California, was recently in Los Angeles and was credited with having represented Schwab at a conference over the proposed steel mill said to have been held aboard the steamer Harvard on Sept. 19.

The $35,000,000 San Juan basin project, near Durango, Colo., is said to depend in part upon the consummation of the San Pedro deal. Coke and ore are both available to the Durango district, and the completion of a 112 mile branch to the steel plant main line would supply an outlet at Los Angeles for the products.

Rival 'Miracle Men' to Meet In Snake-Biting Contest for Championship of Pacific Coast

'Brother John,' San Bernardino Wonder Worker, and 'Brother Isaiah,' Los Angeles Sensation, Matched in Spectacular Contest With Rattlesnake as Third Man in Ring.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Oct. 8.—A world series snake biting contest was projected today—San Bernardino vs. Los Angeles.

This latest sporting event developed as a possibility when "Brother John," a white robed "miracle man" who has been working alleged miracles at San Bernardino, challenged "Brother Isaiah," Los Angeles sensation, to a snake biting contest.

Isaiah, who has been a three months sensation in Los Angeles with his "faith cures," to a snake biting contest, declared that he was the world's champion miracle man.

"Brother John" as challenger offered to let "Brother Isaiah" choose the weapons. He expressed a preference for rattlesnakes, copper-heads or cutters but scrapping, tentacles or saw-saws for that matter, are not ruled out.

"Settlement of the issue is an important thing," "Brother John" declared. "There can be but one miracle man at a time."

Both "Brothers" agreed on that point, and they added that they viewed the question as purely spiritual and financial considerations were not taken into account.

The plan of the contest, as outlined by "Brother John" is exceedingly simple. Both "Brothers" and the snake will gather for the benefit of the multitude. Each "Brother" is to get one bite and the snake, accordingly will get two bites.

Which ever "Brother" is carried away from the arena on a stretcher is declared the loser and hence there will be left in possession of the field the true and experienced "miracle man."

No provision for declaring the snake the winner in case both "Brothers" are carried away, is made.

'Morality Clause' Will Go Into Future Contracts of Stars of the Movie World

Producers Insert New Section in Working Agreements as Protection Against Repetition of Arbuckle Scandal; Declare It Will Beat 'Blue Laws.'

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—Motion picture producers have instructed their legal departments to insert "morality clauses" in all future contracts with stars, effective immediately. Harry L. Wilson, executive of a local concern, stated in an interview with the United Press tonight.

"The producers are going to protect themselves in the future against loss of prestige by their stars," Wilson said.

"This one decision will make a stronger impression on the industry than all the 'blue laws' in the world."

Wilson exhibits a new form of the standard contract, which carries this clause:

"Party of second part shall at all times conduct himself or herself in a dignified manner in public and will not permit himself or herself to be the center of any great amount of publicity or criticism on account of said conduct."

Blazing Beauty and Burning Bay Rum Baffle Bucket Brigade

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Lady barbers and tumbler artists of masculine persuasion were at scissors points here tonight.

Gerald Hafferty, fireman, drew up his fire cart in front of the barber shop belonging to Miss Gladys Wilson.

"This is the best smelling fire I have ever had the pleasure to attend," cried Hafferty. "Come on in fellows, the bay rum's fine."

Inside the shop the firemen rushed. There wasn't much of a blaze but the place was a wreck. Hot towels, mustache curlers, combs, perfumes, tonic, make cure, eye brow persuaders, magazines, razors and shaving brushes were strewn all over the place.

"I'm toweled, mustache curled, combed, perfrumed, tonic, make cure, eye brow persuader, magazine, razor and shaving brush," Hafferty cried.

"You said it," shouted the pretty Miss Wilson, as she emerged with a shaving machine in her well-manicured hands.

"It's male jealousy that's responsible for this," she yelled.

"I trimmed my prices and a lot of these male barbarians grew jealous and wrecked my shop after they were shaved."

Hafferty gasped. "Lamdruff treatment," was all he was able to say.

LONDONERS GIVE NOISY FAREWELL TO PRODIGAL SON

Chaplin Puts on Impromptu Comedy Dash for Train

By CHARLES M. MCCANN,
United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Oct. 8.—England today gave a riotous farewell to its prodigal son, Charlie Chaplin.

The famous screen comedian was whisked "hon voyage" by thousands of his countrymen as he started his trip for America, his adopted homeland.

Londoners, thronging around Chaplin as he made a dash for his train, saw his well known sideways slide put into practical use. Chaplin's watch was fast. He thought he would miss his train. So he started pell mell through the railway station. He skidded around corners in his last style, hotly pursued by porters carrying luggage and by the excited crowd.

When Charlie had scrambled into his compartment he found he had plenty of time before the train started, so he made a speech out of the window.

"I'll return next year," he said.

(Cheers.)

"I'll make a picture here," (loud cheers.)

"And now, adieu to you all!" (Cries of good-bye Charlie.)

The train pulled out for Southampton.

He's on the Ocean Wave.
SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., Oct. 8.—Charlie Chaplin sailed for America today on the Berengaria. A big crowd cheered and waved good-bye.

PACKING HOUSE EMPLOYEES VOTE FOR A STRIKE

No Wage Fight on; 'Open Shop' Is the Only Issue

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Packing house employees of the nation voted in favor of a strike in protest against the "open shop" established by the four big packers, the United Press learned tonight.

Sixty-five thousand employees of packing plants cast their ballots today which had been sent out from union headquarters here.

The chairman of local unions in large packing centers sent in unofficial returns to international officers here tonight. No figures were made public.

The vote of the men to strike throws the matter of industrial peace or warfare in the stock yards into the hands of union officials. It will be up to them to set the date for the walk out.

No question of wages is involved in the present dispute between the packers and their workers. The sole question is the "open shop."

The "open shop" was established in packing companies on September 15, when Armour & Company, Swift & Company, Wilson Packing company, and Morris & Company declared they would no longer deal with union representatives but in the future would treat with their employees direct.

This announcement came on the expiration of the agreement between employees and employers under which Federal Judge Alshuler, Chicago, was mediator in disputes involving wages and working conditions.

Strike ballots were not sent out by union officials here until they had been refused audiences with the packers.

Vote to Strike at K. C.

Cummins Forecasts Early Cut in Freight Rates After Conference With Rail Chiefs

Predicts Action Will Be Voluntary and Will Be Followed by Demand for Equivalent Reduction in Wages; Executives Confer With Harding.

By LAWRENCE MARTIN, (United Press Staff Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The railroads will shortly reduce freight rates voluntarily and will then ask the railway labor board to order an equivalent reduction in wages, Senator Cummins, Iowa, predicted tonight, following a conference with a committee of railroad presidents.

The railroad executives headed by T. DeWitt Caylor, asked Cummins' advice after they had conferred with President Harding and Secretary of Commerce Hoover. They told the president they could not reduce rates unless assured that operating costs would be reduced.

"The executive says that they must reduce rates," Cummins said.

He said the executive realized that they must act soon to save the situation. "They see reduction of wages as the only possible means to a reduction of rates," Senator Cummins said. "I advised them to reduce rates at once by 30 to 35 per cent, particularly those on agricultural products. They would be in a better position before the public to ask wage reductions."

FEAR VIOLENCE FOR 14-YEAR-OLD FRANCIS KLUXEN

Prosecutor Denounces Arrest of Lad for Murder of Girl

MADISON, N. J., Oct. 8.—Francis Kluxen, 14 year old boy arrested in connection with the death of Janette Lawrence, the 12 year old girl, whose body was found in Kluxen's woods riddled with knife wounds, was today released from custody in $5,000 bail.

MADISON, N. J., Oct. 8.—Fearing an attempt to lynch the 14 year old boy Francis Kluxen, Jr., confined in jail on a charge of assaulting and killing little Janette Lawrence, 12, extreme precautions were taken by police here tonight.

A squad of firemen were ordered to sit in front of the fire house near the jail here with a hose ready to turn on any hostile gathering while the boy was kept in jail, it was learned.

The police maintained silence as to the evidence which forced them to arrest young Kluxen.

Discussion developed among officials as to the legal course to be pursued. County Prosecutor John Mills washed his hands of the affair by denouncing the arrest of the boy and declaring there was no evidence against him.

Mills indicated he had another clue to the murderer who dragged the little girl from the sidewalk as she was walking home from a neighbor's and stabbed her 25 times with a pocketknife before he hid her body in the woods.

Blind Senator From Oklahoma May Regain Sight After 20 Years

Irish Truce at Breaking Point As Delegates to Final Peace Conference Reach London

By ED. L. KEENE,
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Oct. 8.—The truce in Ireland was nearer the breaking point tonight than at any time since it went into effect.

This word came as cheering throngs in London were greeting the Sinn Fein delegates to the peace conference which opens Tuesday.

While immense crowds surrounded Euston Station, welcoming the Sinn Feiners, General Macready was in conference with Sir Hamar Greenwood, chief secretary for Ireland, complaining that the republican forces had repeatedly broken both the letter and spirit of the truce.

General Macready who is commander of the British troops in Ireland, informed Greenwood that the Irish republican army was putting strain on the patience of the imperial soldiers.

The British, he said, are religiously observing the truce. They are standing by while the I. R. A. conducts operations which they never were able to carry out during the period of open hostilities.

The government's position is that the military must strictly observe the truce, despite any provocation whatever until the peace conference is a success or a failure, or until an absolutely fatal breach is caused by some action of the Sinn Feiners.

The United Press learned tonight that government representatives declare the conference may be interrupted or even jeopardized by the present truce violations.

The following instances are cited.

Open drilling by republican troops. Kidnapping of British officials. Patrolling operations by Sinn Fein forces.

Commandeering of unoccupied private dwellings for republican troops billeted, despite the agreement that neither side would attempt under the truce acts which they were unable to effect during hostilities.

Commandeering of houses was called a particularly flagrant breach of the agreement, as both sides promised to refrain from aggressions against either government or private property.

Delegates to the London conference, it was learned tonight will introduce at the first meeting a categorical denial of all the above charges. They will deny the truce has been broken by Sinn Fein. They will assert, on the other hand that the black and tans are rough and bitter in their demeanor, and that they are continually violating the truce.

A flat denial that houses have been commandeered will also be made.

Irish Program Ready.
The Irish delegation aside from this issue of truce breaking has prepared a tentative agenda for the deliberations of the peace conference. They expect that Lloyd-George, although he intimated that the parity will give the Irish the lead in starting the discussion.

Charlie Chaplin's welcome to London was outdone by the greeting extended the Sinn Fein delegates here today.

As Arthur Griffith, leader of the delegation, and the others stepped from the train an Irish pipe band on the platform struck up a stirring air. When the men emerged from the station a deafening roar of cheers went up from the crowd which packed the streets and the vast throngs began a sea of waving hats, waving handkerchiefs and Irish republic flags.

All along the route to their headquarters in Chelsea the way was lined by applauding men and women. There were no disturbances. The best feeling was in evidence continuously. The only shakable visible was the worn by a few military police who were on duty to prevent stray soldiers and rambunctious Irishmen getting into difficulties with each other.

TO APPEAL TO PRESIDENT IN TAX DEADLOCK

Six-Sided Contest Over Revenue Act Raging in Senate

By FRAZER EDWARDS
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—President Harding will be appealed to again to break the senate deadlock on the tax bill, it was indicated tonight when the finance committee broke up after an all day wrangle over the Capper-Lodge compromise program.

Not a single item in the compromise plan, which was expected to smooth the way of the tax bill, was agreed upon.

This was the result of the determined stand of the newly formed manufacturers "bloc" against the increased surtax and estate tax rates and the retention of capital stock tax, included in the program.

Senator Penrose announced that the committee would attack the tax problem again on Monday. It was indicated, however, that the week would be spent in straightening out the tax tangle in the committee while the senate devoted itself to the pan-American tolls and the peace treaties.

Meanwhile a six-sided tax fight was on between the manufacturers "bloc" arraigned against the Capper-Lodge compromise, the agricultural "bloc" against both; the democrats opposing the committee bill and the Knoot sales tax "bloc" awaiting an opening favorable to the adoption of the proposal.

Administration leaders believed that executive intervention only would save the muddled situation.

Anybody Want a Monkey? Doctor Anxious to Donate

A South American monkey, which has turned out to be something of a white elephant, is to be offered to the Albuquerque cavalry troop as a mascot by its present owner, Dr. Vere Lane, he announced yesterday.

"I have had too much trouble already with him, and my wife hasn't any use for him," the doctor stated. "Anything to get him off my hands."

The pet arrived from South America a few days ago, a present from D. Miller Lane, the doctor's brother. It seemed to Dr. Lane that every one of his friends must have been at the station when it came in and was taken off the baggage car.

For two days he has been the victim of all kinds of well meant practical jokes. First, a friend who works in a music store telephoned him and wanted to sell him a hand organ. Some one else offered him a uniform for his monkey, cheap. Then came the last straw.

"Theena da doctor da Lane?" came a query over the phone.

"Well, I here you gotta da monkey, you want sell da cheap. How much you ask for da monkey?"

So if the cavalry wants it, it can have a genuine imported mascot from South America.
